All plots apply statistical transformations or summaries to the input data

Every plot type has a default statistical transformation. For some, it's the identity.

Every statistical transformation has a default type of plot.

All plots apply statistical transformations or summaries to the input data

Every plot type has a default statistical transformation. For some, it's the identity.

Every statistical transformation has a default type of plot.